

Purpose

In this assignment, you will transition to a new genre for a new audience: writing a grant proposal for direct government funding for a public sculpture using the knowledge and experience you have gained so far in the course. Working in this new genre will offer insight into how new contexts call for different kinds of argument, evidence, and claims.

Assignment: Written Grant Proposal

Your task is to write a grant proposal for a public monument or memorial for a specific place in your community. In addition to identifying what the sculpture will be about, you should develop a strong idea about what the sculpture should look like and be made of. You must describe exactly where you want the monument erected—be it your hometown, BU's campus, or another place you feel a close affinity with—and why that would be a good place for it. Using clear, concise language, your assignment submission will take the form of short paragraphs in response to standard public grant questions (see below).

In your written responses, you may not use more than three passive verbs (are, is, was, have).

Assignment: Presentation

On the last two days of class, you will share your public art proposal with the class in the form of a short oral presentation. Prepare 4 slides to accompany your 5-minute presentation.

Formatting: Presentation

- Powerpoint file uploaded to Blackboard by 3:35 pm the day of your presentation
- High contrast, large, readable (accessible) font
- High-resolution images

- Slide 1: Your name and the title of your proposal
- Slide 2: Drawing or digital collage of the work
 - o Caption: Title, materials, scale
- Slide 3: What will the bronze plaque next to your monument say? How do you imagine it formatted?
- Slide 4: Map of where you want the work; google screenshot or picture of a plaza will do

- Presentation content [drawn from written text]
 - o What is your work celebrating?
 - o Can you imagine any nicknames that a local community would come up with the work?
 - o Why have you chosen for the monument to look the way that it does? What long-term maintenance or care might the monument need?
 - o Where is it located, and why did you propose for it to be located there? What connection does it have to that location?

Important Dates

- Conference Draft of Writing Assignment: Friday, November 21
 - o Upload the draft version of your paper to the assignment portal on Blackboard by 3:35 pm and bring a printed copy to class.
- Conferences: Wednesday, November 19 thru Monday, November 24
- Oral Presentations: Wednesday, December 3 and Friday, December 5
- Final Written Assignment: Wednesday, December 10
 - o Upload the final version of your paper to the assignment portal on Blackboard by 3:35 pm and bring a printed copy to class.

Resources

- Daniel Grant, "Public Art Isn't Always Meant to be Permanent; Cities can Save Money--and Limit Controversy--by Commissioning Works to be on Display for a Short Time," Wall Street Journal, Jun 27, 2018.
- Betty Lai, "Increase Readability in Grant Writing," in The Grant Writing Guide (Princeton University Press, 2023).

Presentation Rubric: Wednesday December 3 and Friday December 5

*Upload your Powerpoint slides to Blackboard by 3:35 pm the day of your presentation.

Category	Developing Competency	Demonstrating Competency	Exceeding Competency
Delivery: 4-6 minutes of clear, level speaking; practiced speech; facing the audience; does not read from slides
Content: Major goal of project identified and discussed in relationship to its intended location
Presentation design: Accessible, high-contrast slides with copy edited information

Title of proposed monument:

Proposed location (be very specific: which street corner and park?):

1. Describe the design and materials of the proposed sculpture in 5–6 sentences. (Insert a drawing, collage, or computer-generated image into your PowerPoint.)
2. What is the monument celebrating? How does the monument recognize and celebrate cultural diversity, innovation, or heroism? (4–5 sentences)
3. Who are the viewers or community members of the monument? How does the monument connect to this local community? (3–4 sentences)
4. What will the monument's plaque say? (3–4 short lines, organized how it will appear on the plaque)
5. How is the proposed location of the monument appropriate for it? How will the proposed location be affected by the presence of the monument? (4–5 sentences)
6. What is the monument's potential for long-term impact within its community? How will the monument age and withstand its natural environment? What long-term care plans does the monument need? (4–5 sentences)